Child Protection and Safety • Family Preservation
Foster Care • ICWA • Permanence

Please share your ideas about what training and technical assistance your community child welfare agency needs to tackle these challenging issues.

The National Child Welfare Resource Center for Tribes, a service of the Children's Bureau, invites your input in a national Tribal child welfare training and technical assistance needs assessment.

Who should respond?

Tribal leaders, child welfare staff, families & youth, court & law enforcement staff, community members, and others interested in Tribal child welfare services.

Please fill out and return the attached Child Welfare T/TA Needs Assessment return by Sept. 30, 2010

Purpose of the Assessment

The needs assessment is being conducted by the National Resource Center for Tribes, a member of the Children's Bureau National Training and Technical Assistance (T/TA) Network. The purpose is to learn what training or technical assistance Tribal child welfare service providers need to support them in strengthening Tribal child welfare systems.

Your insight will help provide a better picture of the T/TA needs of Tribal child welfare programs nationwide in order for the National Resource Center for Tribes and Network members to develop and offer appropriate training and technical assistance for Tribal child welfare providers at no cost.
